ENGLAND UNPAID*NICARAGUA STILL REMAINS OBDURATE.

Consequently the Towns May Be Bombarded As No Attempt Made to Comply With the British Demands
—The United States Was Used to Gain More Time

Washington, April 29.—Nicaragua may be bombarded before the present complications are adjusted. That is a possibility which is more than hinted at by state department officials and the belief is gaining ground rapidly in the diplomatic corps. It is positively known the United States has received solemn assurances from Great Britain that all operations in Nicaragua will cease the moment the indemnity is paid. Acting on this assurance, President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham has decided to keep out of the dispute just so long as the assurances are justified by the situation.

It is the fact that Nicaragua does not seem inclined to pay up that complicates the situation. President Zelaya, it is said, is ready to make arrangements to pay the money, but the popular feeling is against him, and the prospect is Great Britain will have to proceed to extremities. At the state department it is believed the British commander has received instructions to stand a certain amount of resistance to the payment and then demand the money under penalty of a bombardment. Popular feeling in Nicaragua is strongly against Great Britain, and the local government would precipitate a revolution if it surrendered without a blow. Under the circumstances therefore there may be a show of force by the English ships before long, and Corinto may be shelled as delicately as is possible under the circumstances. News from the isthmus yesterday was meager.

It is said the state department has all along advised Nicaragua the expulsion of Consul Hatch was an offense no self-respecting country could overlook and prompt preparation was due Great Britain. When Lampton and Willbank, the citizens of the United States, were expelled from Bluefields last July for alleged complicity in the conspiracy to defy Nicaraguan authority on the Mosquito coast, in which it was said Consul Hatch was involved, the sentiment in this country was strong and the state department took such vigorous steps that Lampton and Willbank were not only permitted to return, but they were restored to all their rights and property and a public ball was given in their honor. At that time it was believed Nicaragua would show the same willingness to furnish redress to England that she did to the United States. But by continued delay matters reached the acute stage and Great Britain, in accordance with the terms of her ultimatum, seized Corinto to enforce the payment of the indemnity claimed to be due her.

It is pointed out the United States interposition to prevent England from carrying out the present method of collecting the debt would be equivalent to declaring a virtual protectorate over Nicaragua and would commit this government to a policy with regard to the Central and South American countries that would keep her involved in endless broils with European powers. It would give these states the privilege of resisting the just claims of other countries and taking refuge behind the skirts of the United States. In other words, all diplomatic correspondence relative to these states would practically be carried on through Washington. Besides it would greatly embarrass this government in the enforcement of its own claims against these countries.

But it is not believed in official circles Nicaragua will carry her resistance much further. Public sentiment in Nicaragua, it is believed, has compelled President Zelaya to make a show of resistance and to issue his appeal to the world. It is confidently believed that rather than suffer the seizure of other ports or bombardment he will comply and pay the indemnity.

TO GIVE MORE TIME.

Britain Was Willing to Wait Two Weeks
More for the Money.

London, April 29.—The United States attempted to adjust the dispute between Great Britain and Nicaragua. Ambassador Bayard, acting under directions from Washington, represented to the British Foreign Office that Nicaragua, if given two weeks' additional time from the expiration of the three days fixed in the ultimatum, would meet Great Britain's demand for the payment of $15,000 indemnity for the expulsion of Consul Agent Hatch. Lord Kimberly acceded to this, and as it was presumed the State Department at Washington was acting for Nicaragua, it was thought the incident would be closed without further complications. But as Nicaragua refused at the last moment to acquiesce in this arrangement the original plan of occupying Corinto was carried out. It is now believed here that Nicaragua secured intermediation of the United States for the sole purpose of delay.

Union Jack Flies Over Corinto.

Corinto, Nicaragua, April 29.—The situation here remains unchanged. The British flag is flying over the custom house and order prevails everywhere. All Nicaraguan flags have been withdrawn from the public buildings and the national authorities have deserted the town. As matters stand now Corinto is practically a British possession. From all appearances there will be no attempt on the part of the government to interfere with the British so long as the bluejackets keep out of the interior.

UNITED ON THE BILL.

Rival Factions of the Illinois Drainage Contest Now at Peace.

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—The Senate will be more than ordinarily busy this week with a number of important measures which will come as special orders. The most important of these is the drainage bill of Senator Humphrey. The amendment of Senator Leeper, which was adopted last Friday, embodies the chief requirement of the opposing faction, the valley people, and their opposition, it is expected, will now be at an end. The companion bill of Senator Leeper has been practically killed by postponing consideration of it until June 1.

A most important measure introduced by Senator Niehaus is made a special order for Wednesday. It is his bill abolishing the remuneration of State's Attorneys by fees or commissions and substituting therefor fixed salaries. Thursday of this week the Senate will take up the Marquette monument bill on Senator Evans' motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was defeated. Wednesday Senator Craig's bill concerning special assessments and special taxes payable in installments comes up as a special order. Other special orders for that day are Senator Aspinwall's pool-selling bill on third reading, and Senator Hunt's bill amending the act in regard to roads and bridges, allowing County Supervisors a voice in deciding whether to build bridges in townships or not. This is also on the third reading. The Lincoln monument bill passed by the House is the only House bill on third reading.

The forthcoming week in the House promises to be one of hard work. Most members are expecting a sine die adjournment during the first week in June and the work of legislation will now have to be rapidly disposed of. Many important measures are yet pending and a final adjournment will hardly take place until they are passed.

DUE TO FAMILY FEUD.

Killing of Sanger at Milwaukee May Have Been Justifiable.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 29.—Robert Luscombe, ex-city attorney, who shot and killed his brother-in-law, Emil A. Sanger, Saturday night, was released on $10,000 bail yesterday afternoon. Judge Walber ordered the release and the ball bond was signed by S. R. Luscombe, the prisoner's father, and Stephen V. R. Hayes, Mr. Luscombe went at once to his home. He claims to have killed Sanger in self-defense, and after the latter had most cruelly beaten his wife, who is Luscombe's sister. Emil Sanger was the son of Casper M. Sanger, at one time a leading republican politician and a speculator. He was 32 years of age and was the president of the firm of C. M. Sanger Sons' company, doing a saddlery business. His brother, Walter Sanger, is the famous bicycle rider. Caspar Sanger is in California.

Turney Will Be Governor.
Nashville, Tenn., April 29.—The gubernatorial investigating committee presented its report to the legislature Saturday. The report finds that illegal votes were cast for both Turney and Evans. After assigning these illegal votes to the candidate for whom they were cast the committee reports that, after making proper deductions from the vote of each candidate, it is shown by the face of the returns Governor Turney has a plurality of 2,358 votes over Mr. Evans. The joint convention of the legislature will meet to-morrow to consider the report and adopt or reject it.

Evidence in the Boundary Fight.
Menominee, Mich., April 29.—Attorney-General Maynard of Michigan has been here since Saturday noon making a personal investigation of the Michigan-Wisconsin boundary line, which has been the subject of considerable controversy between the cities of Menominee and Marinette for some time past. The matter was submitted to him by both the city and county. Mr. Maynard made a thorough inspection of the old bridge, the river which it spans, and the islands in that immediate vicinity. He will tender his opinion soon.

To Ask France for an Indemnity.
Washington, April 29.—John M. Langston, attorney of ex-Consul Waller, who is imprisoned at St. Pierre by the French, is determined to push the case. "In the first place," said he, "we propose to maintain the concessions obtained by Mr. Waller in Madagascar. The whole purpose of the prosecution and persecution of Waller by the French government was to despoil him of the concessions he procured. We intend to force the French government to pay Waller an indemnity."

Many Houses In the Northern Portion
Leveled and Three Men Are Killed
—Building Wrecked By Exploding
Gas—Death List At Epinal, France, Keeps Growing.

Omaha, April 29.—A cyclone struck the northwestern part of the city this morning and many houses were blown down. Three men are reported killed and the damage will be very heavy. Elyria, O., April 29.—The G. A. R. hall was wrecked by gas that had escaped and become ignited.

Epinal, France, April 29.—The list of the fatalities caused by the breaking Saturday morning of the great Bouzey dike increases every hour. One hundred and fifteen deaths have already been reported, but only fifty bodies have been recovered. It is believed the death list will be greatly in excess of the figures above given when all the districts are heard from. It is supposed many of the dead were swept into isolated places where it will be a long time before the bodies are found.

The whole region over which the thousands of tons of water swept in a relentless flood is strewn with every sort of wreckage, and the whole country presents a most desolate appearance. In many cases the crops were swept clean out of the ground, and the losses thus incurred will be heavy.

Six brigades of gendarmes have arrived, and they have been detailed to act as guards. Every attempt is being made to reorganize the district, but this is rendered difficult by the waters. The Avere, a small stream is now in some places a mile and a half wide. The railway in the vicinity of the Darnieulles station was torn up. Railroad ties were swept away and the embankments destroyed. Nearly every bridge in the line of the flood was either destroyed or so badly damaged it will have to be rebuilt.

The distress among the homeless dwellers of the valley is very great and in many cases they appear to be mentally benumbed by the calamity that has fallen on them. The government is fully aware of the disaster and is doing everything possible to relieve the people's sufferings. M. Dupuy, minister of public works, and M. Leigues, minister of the interior, are now on their way here to assume charge of the relief work. Three thousand francs have already been received for relief purposes, and the ministers will bring 5,000 more from the funds of their departments and 1,000 contributed by President Faure. Mme. Heine has sent 20,000 francs, which will be applied to relieving the sufferers.

The prefect of the department has visited all the districts affected by the disaster. He has organized the employees on the public roads and aided by the military will as soon as possible restore communication. These employees and the soldiers will also search for the dead and immediately bury all the dead animals they may find. All the municipal authorities are working ceaselessly in distributing relief and seeking to bring order out of the chaos prevailing. Over 50,000 persons from the nearby towns and the surrounding country visited the scene of the disaster to-day.

At 4 o'clock yesterday the burial of fifteen of the victims took place at Domevere, one of the villages that suffered the worst from the inundation. Two thousand persons attended the funerals, which were held while the graves were being dug. There were many heartrending scenes while the bodies were being consigned to the earth.

The construction of the dike, or dam, was commenced in 1879 and finished in 1884. In 1889 it was greatly strengthened. It was heavy masonry, 550 yards long, 66 feet high, and 66 feet thick at the base. The masonry was carried into the ground to a depth of thirty feet below the level of the valley into which the reservoir discharged its water. It was built against a vertical face of solid rock, having a maximum height of eighteen feet. The base rested in a sandstone bottom of natural formation. The massive construction of the dam was considered to be a guarantee it would hold back any weight of water that could be brought against it. Until the strengthening of the work in 1889 it was not subjected to the full pressure of the water which it was built to hold.

Rich Silver Strike at Leadville.

Leadville, Colo., April 29.—Two rich silver strikes have just been made here. In the Capital shaft of the Northern Mining Company a rich body of chlorides was opened. The mineral runs 700 ounces, and from that to $2,000 to the ton. A big strike was also made in the Cohn shaft. Here development work has led to an ore body that is large and rich. Assays run not less than fifty ounces and as high as seventy-five ounces to the ton. Both of these mines are located in what is known as the "city limits."

American Branch to Stand Alone.

Boston, Mass., April 29.—The American section of the Theosophical society in annual convention assembled yesterday voted to sever its connection with the international society and assert its complete independence. San Francisco, Cal., April 29.—Lieut.-Commander E. W. Sturdy, executive officer of the cruiser Olympia, denies the stories of desertions resulting from ill-treatment. He says the trouble arose because the crew insisted on more shore food than the regulations allowed. There were fifteen desertions from the vessel in Southern California ports.

GOMEZ NOW IN CUBA.

Famous General Joins Forces of the Insurgents.

Santiago, Cuba, April 20, via Key West, April 29.—Maximo Gomez, the famous soldier who took part in the last revolution in Cuba on the side of the separatists, has landed in Cuba. Every available means had been taken by the Spanish authorities to prevent the fact becoming known, but it is true. Spanish troops have been dispatched

GEN. MAXIMO GOMEZ.

Cuban Insurgent Commander. to the scene to try and catch Gomez.

Speaking of the revolutionists Marshal Campos said: "There is no army. Small guerrilla bands are scattered about the interior at the eastern end of the island. The country is thinly settled and difficult for an army to operate in. A few men who know the paths can roam about in the chapparal and their capture is difficult. The United States had much trouble with guerrilla bands during the civil war. I propose to maintain law and to insure tranquillity. Subjection on the part of those in rebellion is necessary. The power of the government will be used to maintain subjection."

Madrid, April 29.—Marshal Campos has drawn up a plan of campaign against the rebels. He will go to Santiago de Cuba in three or four days from Havana. Campos has telegraphed the government to send to Cuba additional surgeons and a commissariat corps.

Reported Uprising of Half-Breeds.

Winnipeg, Man., April 29.—Reports come in from St. Johns, just over the Manitoba boundary, that 1,500 Indians and half-breeds are on the warpath, and that 700 women and children are in tents on the prairie. Troops from Fort Totten are ordered to St. Johns. A man named Ross, living near the boundary on the Canadian side, was chased by Indians and had to flee for his life.

Cruisers Reach New York.

New York, April 29.—The cruisers Columbia and New York, which were detached from Admiral Mead's squadron at Key West and ordered to proceed to the Navy Yard at Brooklyn to prepare for participation in the ceremonies at the opening of the North Sea and Baltic Canal in June, have arrived here.

NEWMAN ARRESTED IN CHURCH
He Is Charged With the Murder of Mrs.
Savannah Dugan.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 29.—William Newman, a railroad brakeman, was arrested in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon on the charge of murdering the woman whose funeral was being held.

Mrs. Savannah Dugan, aged 36 years, was found dead at her home, No. 50 Chicago street, this city, last Wednesday night. Coroner Harrod thought the woman had died of heart failure. A post-mortem examination revealed the startling fact that her neck had been broken. Then those who handled the remains told of marks of violence on the neck, as if Mrs. Dugan had been choked by strong hands.

Mrs. Dugan kept a boarding house and Newman was one of her boarders. He was the person who found the woman dead and reported to her daughter, Miss Lizzie Dugan, that her mother was lying on a bed upstairs dying. The terrified girl found on reaching the room that her mother was dead. In making her statement to Police Superintendent Liggett and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Ryan Lizzie Dugan, who is 16 years old, said she heard Newman go out twice and return each time to the upper rooms, where her mother was that fatal night. It is evident there was a quarrel, and the case is mysterious as no motive is known for murdering the woman. Her husband is alive, but has not been living with her. Other persons are to be arrested. The arrest in the crowded church caused a profound sensation.

TO UNITE CATHOLIC SOCIETIES.

Movement for the Consolidation of All of a General Character.

Omaha, Neb., April 29.—One hundred prominent citizens representing the reception committee assigned to meet the visiting members of the National Council Catholic Knights of America, who meet here May 14, held a session yesterday and completed preliminaries. It seems probable the National Council will take the initiative in a movement the ultimate object of which is the consolidation of the various Catholic organizations that are general in character and benevolent in purpose. There are a dozen such general organizations, with an aggregate membership exceeding 200,000. While considerable opposition has been developed and various objections raised it is evident the movement is receiving the thoughtful consideration of matured minds in the two organizations immediately concerned, as well as among the members of other societies. Several branches of the Catholic Knights have endorsed the suggestion and recommended it to the consideration of the National Council.

To Work for Silver in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., April 29.—The section of the Democratic conference this week in declaring against the free coinage of silver does not end the matter. The silver element is dissatisfied and is making arrangements to call a conference of silver Democrats alone to meet here early in May. The object will be to make arrangements for carrying the county convention so as to sweep the state convention in favor of silver; also to place the state organization of the party in the hands of "new men"—sound silver Democrats.

Massillon Miners to Quit.

Canton, O., April 29.—Word reached local operators to-day that all union miners in the Massillon district have been notified to quit work on May 1 and remain out subject to the order of the Columbus convention of May 3. Dissatisfaction with last fall's settlement and recent cuts in the Pittsburg district are the cause.

Incendiary Blaze at Muncie, Ind.

Muncie, Ind., April 29.—The Muncie architectural iron works were totally destroyed by fire last night. The loss is $30,000. William M. Madison, April 29.—The sensational suit of Finkelstein against the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad came to a sudden end this morning. Finkelstein sued to recover $45,000 damages, alleging that a locomotive on the defendant's road spouted sparks upon his elevator and store, causing them to burn. The case has been on trial for some days but this morning it was discovered that two of the jurors had examined the locomotive and tried to talk with the railroad men to see if it were possible for the locomotive to set the fire. The jury will probably be discharged and a new trial ordered.

CREATES A BIG CLAIM.

Associate Justice White So Speaks of Income-Tax Decision.

Washington, April 29.—Since the decision of the Supreme court on the income tax frequent references have been made by attorneys to the liability of the government for sums paid on incomes from rents and invested property under former income-tax laws.

It will be remembered that Attorney-General Olney in his brief on the subject of a rehearing suggested that congress could not well escape making provision for the refunding of these amounts if the decision was to stand. Associate Justice White's dissenting opinion also touched upon this point. He said: "Under the income-tax laws which prevailed for many years and which covered every conceivable source of income, rentals from real estate and everything else, vast sums were collected from the people of the United States. The decision here rendered announces that these sums were wrongfully taken and thereby, it seems to me, creates a claim in equity and good conscience against the government for an enormous amount of money. Thus from the change of view by this court it happens that an act of congress, passed for the purpose of raising revenue in strict conformity with the practice of the government from the earliest time and in accordance with the oft-repeated decisions of this court, furnishes the occasion for creating a claim against the government for hundreds of millions of dollars; I say creating a claim because if the government be in good conscience bound to refund that which has been taken from the citizens in violation of the constitution, although the technical right may have disappeared by a lapse of time, or because the decisions of this court have misled the citizen to his grievous injury, the equity endures, and will present itself to the conscience of the government. This consequence shows how necessary it is that the court should now overthrow its past decisions."

AFTER MEXICAN CATTLE.

American Buyers Will Have to Pay Big Prices.

Tuxpan, Vera Cruz, April 29.—A number of American cattle dealers are negotiating for the purchase of the large herds which are held in the Huasteca district, state of Vera Cruz, and which range over portions of the states of Puebla and Hidalgo. These herds are practically the bulk of the cattle remaining in the entire republic for consumption and export, and high prices will probably be realized. There has been a movement on foot to ship a large number of cattle by sea to New York and place them on that market at the high prices ruling on beef throughout the United States. Beef and all kinds of meats are steadily rising in price all through the country. The supply of stock in other parts of Mexico is hard to compute with exactness, but from none of the cattle districts can any considerable amount of stock be shipped to the United States markets.

Confederate Veterans Organizing.

New Orleans, La., April 29.—J. B. Gordon, general commanding the United Confederate Veterans, through George B. Moorman, adjutant-general, has issued an order in which he announces that No. 600 has been reached in the enrollment of new camps, and that application has been made for the organization of nearly one hundred more. A general reunion to be held in Houston, Texas, on the 22d, 23d and 24th of May next.

Butte, Mont., April 29.—The grand jury called three weeks ago by Judge Speer, of the district court, to investigate the disastrous dynamite explosion of January 15, by which 58 men were killed, refused to indict any one on the ground they were unable to locate the responsibility. Civil suits for damages aggregating $250,000 have been brought against the two hardware companies.

Zanesville to Have the Plan.

Columbus, O., April 29.—The Ohio Republican state convention goes to Zanesville, May 28, and 29. It is now expected that the fight for the nomination for governor on the Republican ticket will be fought out on its merits, for Zanesville has no candidates.

In Her Husband's Presence.

Guthrie, O. T., April 29.—Near Baker, Lincoln county, two masked negroes held up Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, robbed and bound Mr. Williams, and then assaulted his wife. Hayes and William Beach were arrested and fully identified as the guilty parties. There is talk of lynching them.

BUILD AN ANNEX FOR JUDGE SALE

COUNTY COURT MUST HAVE A NEW VAULT.

Papers Valuable Beyond Estimation
Have to Be Kept and the Present
Vault Is Not Large Enough to Contain Them—The Building Committee To Recommend An Addition.

An annex will probably be built on the northeast corner of the court house the coming season. Just what shape this annex will take has not yet been decided upon, as the architect has not been consulted. This step has become necessary owing to the crowded condition of Judge Sale's room, especially the fire-proof vault in his office, where all the valuable papers are kept. This vault was far too small for the accommodation of the papers that have to be kept safe and sacred in this office. So crowded has it become that something must be done to provide room for storage, and as there is no other fire proof room in the building of sufficient size, one must be built. The building committee of the county board, consisting of Supervisors Kimball, Egerton, Bailey and Rathman, were investigating the matter on Saturday, and it is understood they will recommend to the board that an annex be built at the northeast corner of the present building, of sufficient size to accommodate the county judge for all time. Of necessity, this annex will be constructed of fire proof material, and will be adjacent to the county judge's office. No design has yet been suggested for this addition, but this will be left with the architect, that the symmetry of the main building may not be changed more than is absolutely necessary.

The building committee will make some other suggestions for the improvement of the buildings owned by the county, and the jail and the county insane asylum. The county board will meet about the 5th or 6th of June.

CYCLERS TAKE A LONG RIDE

Arrow Club Enjoyed a Thirty-Nine Mile Spin Yesterday

A delegation of the Arrow Cycling club members took a thirty-nine mile ride yesterday. The start was made from the Myers house corner at 9:30 o'clock and there were eighteen wheelmen in line. Six of them dropped out after two miles had been covered and the others spun on bound for Indian Ford, which was the first stopping place, it being a distance of ten miles. The run was made in one hour, and while descending a hill T. M. Nolan ran into the Indian Ford stone quarry, which caused a delay of an hour for repairs. The next stop was at Edgerton, where a special dinner had been ordered at the Commercial Hotel, and from Edgerton the club wheeled for Lake Koshkonong, accompanied by the Edgerton Cycling club. From Lake Koshkonong they sailed through Newville, the next stop being Milton Junction. Here the club were met by a delegation from the "Janesville Fire Department Cycling club" composed of Assistant Engineer George Osgood, Driver W. A. Scott and Dr. J. B. Whiting, Jr., who accompanied them home. This is the first ride in which the club all wore their new uniforms, and they attracted much attention. The party was as follows:

J. G. DeLong, F. P. King,
W. N. Coutsell, W. W. Watt,
Charles Ellis, W. Taylor,
F. W. Bisher, Henry Klein,
Ed. O. Smith, W. Bond,

DISCOURTEANCES CARD PLAYING

"M. G. H." Replies to an Editorial Printed in Saturday's Paper.

The following communication has been handed to The Gazette, and explains itself:

EDITOR GAZETTE—That "Practical Argument," Is it sound? Is it safe? Are not its conclusions based on assumptions? Reference is here had to a leader in The Daily Gazette of last Saturday, upon card playing. An article is copied from the Milwaukee Telegraph with added words of full approval. Games of "euchre, cinch, whist and seven up" are assumed to be harmless, and therefore it is said "ministers and evangelists do in vain froth at the mouth against them."

But who says they are harmless? To call them so, with so much assurance, is to beg the whole question. Do ministers caution christian people against indulgence in them on the theory that they are harmless? Is it not rather from the belief that they are harmful? They claim that they divert attention from worthy objects of pursuit; that they cause a waste of valuable time and that they lead right on toward that very gambling which The Telegraph would have ministers "center their fire upon."

A prisoner in our county jail, who had been led into crime through gambling, said to one who had visited him, that he fell through cards and that he learned to play cards in home games with his mother and sisters. Become familiar with the tools of sin, and you are all the likelier to do sinful work. Christians are bidden to "be not conformed to this world" and when they disregard that bidding the world is quick to notice it and to reflect upon their sincerity. Life is "indeed too short and altogether too important" to be whiled away in that borderland which at the very best is of doubtful morality. There is a profound conviction with very many christian people that the present drift toward such "liberal views" on the amusement question in the churches, instead of being encouraged should be firmly and persistently discouraged by the pulpit and the press. The statement that "the day has gone by when any church can afford to become conscience for intelligent people," if it proves anything proves too much. The Sabbath-breaker and the tippler may plead it at the church door as well as the card player. If the church may not be governed in these matters by its own conscientious convictions then the boundary line between the church and the world is obliterated. Beside the question of influence is to be considered. Whither are Christians leading the young by indulgence in "euchre, cinch, whist and seven up?" Once started on the road will these young people stop at the line which these church members draw for themselves. The moderate drinker glories in his power of self restraint, but the partaker with him in the social glass is all too likely to become a drunkard. Paul declared his purpose to abstain from meat which he might lawfully eat, if by eating it his brother was made to offend. It is well to watch on every side lest we lead others astray.

DON'T LIKE INSURANCE LAWS.

Several Legislative Enactments Do Not Satisfy Agents.

Insurance agents are somewhat agitated over several new laws pertaining to fire insurance, enacted by the legislature. One law provides that it shall be unlawful for any insurance companies doing business in Wisconsin to limit the amount of insurance on merchandise, and forbids companies to compel the insured to assume any risk. The companies are furthermore compelled by the new law to make good their fire losses within sixty days after receiving notice of the loss, while under the old law the companies were allowed time to ascertain the amount of the loss, estimates and proof. According to the new law, it is furthermore claimed the appraisers must be citizens of Wisconsin, which was wrong, for the companies would not always find expert appraisers in Wisconsin.

F. A. SPOON HONORED BY THE Y. P. S. C. E.

CHOSEN AS THE PRESIDENT
BY THE ORGANIZATION.

Society In Their Annual Meeting At Whitewater Saturday Selected the Janesville Man As the Head—Miss May Clark the Local Superintendent of Junior Work.

Frank A. Spoon, of this city, was elected president of Southern Wisconsin Christian Endeavor societies at the meeting held at Whitewater, and Miss May Clark, also of this city, was elected superintendent of junior work. It is a high honor to be placed at the head of the organization of Wisconsin, and Mr. Spoon's many friends will extend him congratulations, fully conscious of the fact that he will fill the position to the entire satisfaction of all and to the substantial benefit of the societies. The annual meeting came to a close Saturday evening, and was largely attended, quite a delegation from Janesville being present. The opening exercise was a 6 o'clock sunrise prayer meeting. At 9, the regular work began with prayer and song service, followed by reports from secretary and treasurer. An address "Knowledge of the Bible as a Qualification for Intelligent Christian Living," was delivered by President Albert Salisbury. The features of the afternoon were junior work, reports from various societies, and election of officers for the ensuing year, the full list selected being as follows:

F. A. Spoon, Janesville, president; Miss Cora Pollock, Beloit, secretary; Miss Belle Weeks, Sharon, treasurer; W. G. Root, Milton; superintendent junior work; Look-out committee, Albert M. Ten Eycke, Brodhead; Clarence Weeks, Janesville; Miss May Clark.

LADY DIDN'T APPRECIATE DANGER

The Engineer and Fireman, However, Were Made To Turn Pale.

But a few hours ago a fast passenger train, several minutes late, swept around a curve at sixty miles an hour. Just ahead, a woman stood in the center of the track, traveling in the same direction as the train. The engineer blew the danger signal, the bell clanged its warning, but the woman, absorbed in her own thoughts, trudged on between the rails regardless of approaching danger. Steam was quickly shut off, the Westinghouse brake flung its full strength against eighteen pairs of wheels, while the wild shriek of the whistle still pierced the air, and two pale faced men gazed upon what they thought to be the certain mangle and death of a woman. Just then the voice of the fireman struck her ear and the spell was broken. She stepped from the track but the pilot touched the edge of her skirt as the train rushed by, and strange to say after the train had passed the woman stepped back between the rails and continued her journey as if nothing unusual had happened, but in the cab it was different. It was hours before the engineer and fireman fully recovered from the incident.

ANGEL INDICTED JUST THE SAME

Her Marriage by a Janesville Justice Didn't Have the Desired Effect.

Mrs. Margaret Teft Weldon, the Schweinfurth "angel" who was married to Linn Weldon by Justice Richardson a few days ago, was indicted by the Rockford grand jury along with the alleged Messiah. It was thought that her marriage would end the case so far as she was concerned, but that proved to be untrue, and the law holds her liable the same as the others. It now transpires that Schweinfurth borrowed $10,000 a short time ago at Freeport on real estate owned by him, with which to provide means for defense. Should the state fail in conviction of Schweinfurth he will at once be arrested for debt on the Coudrey judgment of $50,000 and be placed in the Cook county jail to work out the amount at the rate of $10.50 a week, the plaintiff being obliged to pay his board of $3.50 a week in advance.

SUITS FOLLOW A CLINTON FIGHT

Shovels and Revolvers Were Used And Then The Law Invoked.

Jacob Miller has had considerable trouble since taking the job of doing the mason work on the tower for the Clinton water works. First he got into trouble with F. Wobig and the fight ended by F. Wobig's hitting Miller with a shovel while the latter drew a revolver. Wobig then had Miller arrested for drawing the gun and Miller paid $1 to Justice Cronkite. Then Wobig had Miller arrested again for going armed but the justice dismissed the case. The third case was Wobig's causing the arrest of Miller for committing assault and battery. Miller was convicted of the charge and fined another dollar, but appealed from the justice's decision.

RAID BELOIT ROOMS LOOKING FOR GAMES

LINE CITY MAYOR AND POLICE ON A JUNKET.

Doors Were Broken Open With Sledge Hammers And Threats To Shoot Are Said to Have Been Made—Michael Ryan to Fight the Case.

Beloit, April 29.—Mayor Smith and the police made another raid on the gambling dens Saturday night. They started out about 12 o'clock and visited several rooms in the Goodwin house, where it was alleged card playing was going on, but found nothing. The next place visited was the restaurant run by F. Beimer, where, in a room connected with the establishment several hundred chips, three dozen decks of cards, a gaming table and other gambling paraphernalia were confiscated, but no games were in progress. Then the rooms over Michael Ryan's saloon were honored with a call, but no one was present and nothing found. This latter place was the one visited in the previous raid where considerable gaming apparatus was secured, and as the rooms were lighted up it was believed a game was in progress. Three doors were broken open with a sledge hammer and the place was found in this condition Sunday morning when the proprietor came down. Mr. Ryan was greatly chagrined and remarked that the officers "had bitten off a bigger chunk than they could chew this time."

"I have nothing to say," he remarked "but the other fellows will have a chance to do their talking to Attorney William Smith of Janesville."

Several other places were called on but nothing of importance discovered. It is rumored that some threatened shooting and other exciting scenes were developed in the raid.

BABY CONTEST OPEN BALLOTS IN DEMAND

THE CONTEST.

Five Shares of Stock in the Rock County Building Loan and Savings Association Will be Given the Winner June 1—Value at Maturity Is $500 and It Is Non Assessable.

The polls for The Gazette contest for the babies is now open and the ballot will be found at the close of this article and will run until June 1, when the contest will close. Much interest is centered in The Gazette's offer to present the baby who gets the highest number of votes with $500 worth of stock in the Rock County Building Loan and Savings Association. It is a prize worth getting, for naturally it will be worth just half a thousand dollars. That will be a nice nest egg if kept at interest after maturity until the child becomes old enough to want to use it.

It will buy an education.
It will buy a building lot.
It will buy a piano and the lessons necessary to play upon it.

It is more than many people are able to save in a life time.

Of course all the mothers and fathers want it for their babe. How to get it is told below:

The polls opened this morning and will remain open until June 1. The baby that receives the most ballots in that time will receive a certificate calling for these five shares of stock. There are no dues to be paid, no assessments to be met, no installments to provide for. The stock stands for $500 in cash and on its maturity, which will be in nine and one-third years, the money will be ready. The prize is a handsome one—it is well worth winning and the conditions of the ballot are as follows:

From March 1 until June 1, a coupon will be printed in each issue of The Gazette.

Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.

Out the ballot out (trimming on the dotted lines.) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to to Ballot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Only one person can vote for on one ballot.

The baby who receives the largest number of votes will receive five shares of stock in the Rock County Building & Savings Association, cash value, $500 at maturity.

The contest will close June 1 at 9 p. m., and the stock will be delivered as soon as the count of votes is completed.

Any non-subscriber who will subscribe for The Gazette and pay in advance will be entitled to the following number of ballots:

New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance two months, 250 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance six months, 900 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance one year, 2,000 votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and casts the number of votes specified is also entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day and vote in the regular manner.

No person will be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address.

In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers.

No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday and start it again Tuesday and claim the premium offered.

No votes can be transferred from one candidate to another after being registered in this office.

Candidates must not be more than three years of age March 1, 1895, and must live in Janesville.

THE BALLOT.

The Publishers of "The Janesville Gazette" will give 5 Shares of stock in the Rock County Building, Loan & Savings Association to the Baby who receives the largest number of ballots.

—ONE VOTE FOR—

Of Janesville, Wis.

A Blessed Deliverance.

This is effected when the hostile disturbance of the liver, known as biliousness, ceases through the benign operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Pain in the right side and under the right shoulder blade, yellowness of the skin and eye-balls, "fur" upon the tongue, morning nausea, vertigo, sour breath, irregularity of the bowels and sick headache, are among the distressing symptoms which take their departure when the great antibilious medicine is resorted to. Chills and fever, kidney and bladder trouble, rheumatism, dyspepsia and nervousness are also remedied by the Bitters, which is also a superb tonic and promoter of sleep and appetite. Use the Bitters persistently and not by fits and starts. Speedy good results will follow.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth, Be sure and use that old and well tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Janet's Apt Remark.

"Now, Janet," said her mother sternly, "there is one thing that I want to impress upon you. Mrs. de Bouillon of Chicago is coming to spend a few days with me. Her little boy is very lame—was born that way—and you must not say one word to him about it. Think how it would be if you were lame. De be a good girl."

"I will," said Janet.

All went well for a few hours. Little De Bouillon was very crooked and very spoiled. Janet displayed toys and books, and put up with a great deal of irritable comment. Finally two shrill voices rose over the ladies' conversation.

"I don't like your old house in Avondale," screamed the cripple. "We got one lots nicer."

"I don't believe it," retorted Janet; "cause the Chicago children looks like they come off remnant counters."

Accomplished Monkeys.

It is said that the apes of Siam are very popular among the Siamese merchants as cashiers in their counting houses. An enormous amount of base coins are known to be in circulation in Siam, and it is very difficult to detect the counterfeit money. No human being can discriminate between the good and bad coin with as much accuracy as these apes, and no trained banker can compete with them in their peculiar specialty.

In pursuing his employment, the ape cashier meditatively puts each coin in his mouth and tests it gravely. From two to five seconds is sufficient time for him to make his decision as to its merits. If the coin is good he carefully puts it into the proper receptacle; if base, it is violently thrown on the floor, while Mr. Monkey makes his displeasure known by his angry chatter.

Fashion Code for Men.

The sterner sex has its code of fashions just as much as women, though its changes are more subtle and less observable. To believe this, notice has only to be taken of the silk hat treasured by its country owner for a couple of years, when its shape is found to be absolutely different to those about it, and unutterably absurd. With coats built after the mode of 1830, they are adopting the manners of that day. Patterned waistcoats, especially those embroidered by fair fingers are about to reappear. Snuff boxes are on sale again, and discussions are taking place concerning mixtures. In club land—snuff boxes have never entirely gone out of fashion, and in some old established hotels are still to be found. Smokers are usually not sufferers, and vice versa. Will smoking decline as snuffing revives?

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

This class of women are more or less afflicted with illness brought on by constant application in one position. Therefore all will be interested in the candid expression of this bright young lady of Denver, Col., who writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:—

"I feel better than I have for years. It seems a seven days' wonder to my friends. Where I used to be pined, everything is the opposite, and there is not a day but what some one wants to know what I have done to work such a wonder."

"Before taking the Compound I had constant headaches; was constipated; bloated; eyes weak, with watery whites; bearing down pains; pains in the small of my back and right side; took cold very easily, which always caused intense pain in ovaries. I did not want to go anywhere or see any one."

"I was called cross, but I could not help it, feeling as I did. I could not lift anything or do any hard work without suffering for days afterward. Menstruation lasted from eight to ten days, the first two or three days being in almost constant pain, day and night."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made a new girl of me; am now well, happy, and strong." Yours truly, A. STENOGRAPHER, Denver, Col.

She served three years and was twice wounded. In the Yorktown campaign she was taken with brain fever and sent to a hospital, where her sex was discovered. Washington befriended her, and during his administration she received a pension and a grant of land. Rufus King, American statesman, died at Jamaica, N. Y.; born 1753.

THAT PRACTICAL ARGUMENT.

In another column will be found an article from Rev. Dr. Hodge, replying to an editorial on amusements, in Saturday's Gazette. That church people should conscientiously differ on this question that has long been a bone of contention, is not at all strange. The reverend gentleman after a long and useful life, from his standpoint of observation, sees only danger and license in the social game of cards at home. Colonel Watrous, a prominent church man of another creed, although not a clergyman, has been led to believe by observation and experience, that the safeguard of the home is strengthened by making it attractive and entertaining.

While it is possible for a young man to go astray from a christian home and develop a mania for gambling, claiming in the hour of detection that the home was responsible for his early instruction, it is safe to assume that the same young man, deprived of the home amusement, would have joined the army of young men, who are driven out of the home because of the rigid enforcement of rules against social games. The son of a clergyman in this state wandered from the home to find social amusements. Today he is a physical and moral wreck conducting a low dive in a distant city.

Liense to sin is never tolerated in any well regulated home or in any church, but liberty of conscience and judgment are questions that are considered by the religious world as of minor importance. It is possible to make the dividing line between the church and the world so hedgelike and thorny as to bar from church fellowship many good people, who would be helped by, and helpful to the church.

As a theorist Post Master General Wilson caps the climax. He had a theory in regard to free trade that practice is demonstrating to be a farce of the first magnitude. To bolster up this theory he now claims that his shop is turning out more postage stamps than at any time in the history of the country as the result of increased trade on account of his tariff bill.

If the the theoretical professor will investigate the record, he will find that the sale of stamps increases rapidly every year, and he will also discover that democratic economy turned out the first six months of experimenting, a volume of worthless trash called stamps that was simply an abortion and utterly useless.

Colonel George W. Bain, the noted temperance lecturer, in speaking of moderate drinking, recently said: "Men claim that they can stop drinking, whenever they will. A man closes his hand. He can open it when he wills. He keeps it closed for a whole year, and behold, when he tries to open it, he finds that the muscles and tendons of that hand are useless, and it remains closed forever. So it is with the will of the moderate drinker."

The argument is strong, and worthy the thoughtful attention of every young man who is undecided as to the safety of moderation.

The government will run behind this month over $12,000,000, with a prospect for a still greater deficiency in May. Secretary Carlisle is a great predictor, but facts are obstinate, the country will be in great luck, if it goes through the summer without another bond issue.

To meet Welsh competition, wages of American tin plate laborers have been reduced 30 per cent. The tin dinner pail that originally cost ten cents can now be bought for 9 cents but instead of the dollar for labor, 70 cents is the ruling price. More dollars, and more ten cent pails, would be better economy.

Denver, Colorado, is so overrun with bicycles that the street car lines are complaining bitterly about loss of patronage in consequence. It is estimated that 10,000 wheels are in daily use.

The Gould match factory is looking for a western location. The company contemplates a factory with a capacity of ten cars a day. For a coin collector a match factory is as good as an oil well.

Russia and Germany want a hand in the settlement with China. The United States may be called upon to interfere in the interest of Japan and other nations.

The Wisconsin legislative delegation has returned from its junketing tour, and has but little to say concerning the hospitality of the state across the line.

After the government and the supreme court get through playing football with the income tax, there won't be enough left of it for a respectable funeral.

Debs is as much a conundrum to the courts as he was to the country a year ago. The chances are more than ever that he will go scot free.

The Cunard steamer liners use 600 tons of coal every twenty-four hour hours. The company's coal bill in 1893 was $2,000,000.

Free air, free whisky, free trade, and free silver, ought to be freedom enough for any party, and yet democracy is not happy.

It looks very much as though Nicaragua must pay up or go out of business.

THE TOWN TALK OF A DAY.

If we had the time we could write column after column about our Fond du Lac stock of shoes. They are actually the best stock we ever saw and we have been in the shoe business a lifetime and handled thousands of dollars worth of shoes. We have built up a reputation as the shoe-fitters of Wisconsin and are maintaining it every day, even though we are selling shoes at 60 cents on the dollar. We'll continue the good work all summer. $30,000 must go. Becker & Woodruff.

READING is one of the most pleasurable pastimes one can enjoy. In order to read well and enjoy what one reads good eyesight is necessary. If the eye is slightly defective or nature has deprived the reader of those facilities which one requires to see print, W. F. Hayes can restore this much needed pleasure by fitting a pair of glasses. F. C. Cook & Co.

MUST be a reason for it. Every day we grow busier. Get in a new lot of orders, and have to hustle to get them out. The only reason we can assign for this fact is that we make the best buggy for the money made in the country. Wisconsin Carriage Top Co.

Did you get 6 bars of toilet soap Saturday? If you didn't you missed the opportunity of your life time, as such a case will probably never occur again. Prentice & Evenson.

All Except One of the Crew Saved. Toledo, O., April 30.—Capt. George Hayward and four of the crew of the little steamer Sakie Shepherd, which foundered and sunk just outside of Maumee bay Saturday afternoon, arrived in Toledo safe yesterday. They left the sinking steamer in a yawl just before it sank. William Jones, the cook, and Albert Hamlin, the engineer, were left on the wreck. Hamlin was afterwards rescued by the tug Roy of this city, but Jones was drowned.

Forest Fires Extinguished. Duluth, Minn., April 29.—A heavy rain began falling all over this section of the state yesterday afternoon, and is still in progress. It will extinguish the forest fires which have been starting up throughout the timber region, and by filling the small streams enable the lumber men to get out their logs.

BOY AND GIRL WED IN SPIKE OF MAMMA

MR. M'FARLAND'S CHASE WAS A FRUITLESS ONE.

While She Was Looking For Her Daughter And Harry Slawson At the Home of Relatives, the Couple Were Standing Before a Beloit Minister—Blessed and Forgiven.

After having blessed and forgiven her daughter and her new son-in-law, Mrs. McFarland of Stoughton, wreathed in smiles of happiness, boarded a train for home this morning. The eloping couple had won the day and this morning Mrs. McFarland was as pleased as she was displeased Saturday when she came here looking for her fifteen-year-old daughter Grace, and Harry Slawson, who had eloped from the Dane county town.

Miss McFarland and young Slawson were the couple whose elopement was told of in Saturday's paper. After they returned from a ride in the country, they boarded the 2:15 train for Beloit. Ten minutes after the train arrived in the Line City, the couple were standing before a Beloit clergyman. They knew how to answer the questions put to them this time and the Beloit divine did not know that anything was wrong, so they were wed.

In the mean time, Mrs. McFarland had driven to the home of John Turnbull, who lives near the "four mile bridge" where the couple were supposed to be visiting. While Mr. Turnbull was explaining that they had just left a few hours before, the Beloit minister was saying "I do therefore pronounce you man and wife." The 4:05 train brought Mr. and Mrs. Slawson back to Janesville and a liveryman was engaged to take them to Mrs. Turnbull's home, where they are now spending their honeymoon. When they arrived at that place and told Mrs. McFarland that they were married, she asked to see the certificate. It was shown her, and her blessing followed.

"I did all that I could to stop the wedding," she said this morning, "but now that they are married, it is all right, and I gave them my blessing. Young folks will be young folks, and perhaps it isn't as bad as it might be after all. I am going home, and Mr. and Mrs. Slawson will stop at Mr. Turnbull's for a few days."

SPECIAL TRAIN RAN ON A TRIP OF DEATH

ST. PAUL CO. KIND TO C. & N. W. MOURNERS.

In Order That the Employees of the Rival Company Could Attend a Brother Engineer Funeral at Brodhead the Train Was Put On—The Case a Sad One.

A special Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train rolled out of Janesville at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning on a mission of death. In the coaches was a funeral party bound for Brodhead to attend the last services over the remains of Engineer T. J. Murphy of Kaukauna, who died at the home of his parents at Brodhead, as the result of taking a trip on his engine too soon after a siege of illness. Fourteen engineers, twelve of whom were St. Paul employees, went from Janesville on the special and returned at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. S. A. Hagaman and S. L. Mahard, two Kaukauna engineers, came down to attend the funeral. Mr. Murphy's home was at Kaukauna, and he handled a Chicago & Northwestern locomotive on the Ashland division of that road. Some time ago he was taken sick, but on recovering somewhat, resumed his run. The trip was too much for him, however, and he went from Kaukauna to Brodhead, where his parents reside, to recuperate, but while there he became worse, and finally died. The kindness of the St. Paul officials in running a special train for the accommodation of the engineers and firemen who desired to attend the funeral of the trusted employee of a rival line was thoroughly appreciated by Messrs. Hagaman and Mahard as the following card will show:

EDITOR GAZETTE: Please allow us space in which to thank W. W. Collins, John C. Fox, officials, and William Wilkinson, C. M. Warren, E. K. Schlater, and A. G. Wilkinson, engineers of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. P. Railway for a special train and the many other courtesies extended while in this city and at Brodhead in attendance at the funeral of our departed Brother, T. J. Murphy. We wish them health and happiness in life and in death a full reciprocation of their acts while with us.

The Sheriff of Siskyou.

By BRET HARTE.

hidden by a thin film of grayish blue haze that seemed to be creeping along it. But above was the clear sky, seen through the interlacing boughs, and to their surprise they who had just come from the breathless, stagnant hillside a fierce wind was blowing. But the roaring was louder than before.

"Unless your three men are already here your game is up," said the major calmly. "The wind blows dead along the ridge where they should come, and they can't get through the smoke and fire."

It was indeed true. In the scarce 20 minutes that had elapsed since the sheriff's return the dry and brittle underbrush for half a mile on either side had been converted into a sheet of flame which at times rose to a furnace blast through the tall, chimneylike conductors of these shafts, from whose shriveled sides bark was crackling and lighted dead limbs falling in all directions. The whole valley, the gully, the bar, the very hillside they had just left, was blotted out by a creeping, stifling smoke fog that scarcely rose breast high, but was beaten down or cut off clearly by the violent wind that swept the higher level of the forest. At times this gale became a sirocco in temperature, concentrating its heat in withering blasts which they could not face or focusing its intensity upon some mass of foliage that seemed to shrink at its touch and open a scathed and quivering aisle to its approach. The enormous skeleton of a dead and rotten redwood not 100 yards to their right broke suddenly like a gigantic firework into sparks and flame.

The sheriff had grasped the full meaning of their situation. In spite of his first error—the very carelessness of familiarity—his knowledge of woodcraft was greater than his companions', and he saw their danger.

"Come," he said quickly, "we must make for an opening, or we shall be caught."

The major smiled in misapprehension.

"Who could catch us here?" The sheriff pointed to the blazing tree. "That," he said. "In five minutes it will have a posse that will wipe us out."

He caught the major by the arm and rushed him into the smoke and apparently in the direction of the greatest mass of flame. The heat was suffocating, but it struck the major that the more they approached the actual scene of conflagration the heat and smoke became less until he saw that the fire was retreating before them and the following wind. In a few moments their haven of safety—the expanse already burned over—came in sight. Here and there seen dimly through the drifting smoke the scattered embers that still strewed the forest floor in weird, nebulous spots, like will-o'-the-wisps. For an instant the major hesitated. The sheriff cast a significant glance behind them.

"Go on. It's our only chance," he said imperatively.

They darted on, skimming the blackened or smoldering surface, which at times struck out spark and flame from their heavier footprints as they passed. Their boots crackled and scorched beneath them. Their shreds of clothing were on fire. Their breathing became more difficult until providentially they fell upon an abrupt, fissurelike depression of the soil which the fire had leaped and into which they blindly plunged and rolled together. A moment of relief and coolness followed as they crept along the fissure, filled with damp and rotting leaves.

"Why not stay here?" said the exhausted prisoner.

"And be roasted like sweet potatoes when these trees catch?" returned the sheriff grimly. "No." Even as he spoke a dropping rain of fire splattered through the leaves from a splintered redwood before overlooked that was now blazing fiercely in the upper wind. A vague and undefinable terror was in the air. The conflagration no longer seemed to obey any rule of direction. They scrambled out of the hollow and again dashed desperately forward.

Beaten, bruised, blackened and smoke grimed, looking less human than the animals who had long since deserted the crest, they at last limped into a "wind opening" in the woods that the fire had skirted. The major sank exhaustedly to the ground. The sheriff threw himself beside him. Their strange relations to each other seemed to have been forgotten. They looked and acted as if they no longer thought of anything beyond the present. And when the sheriff finally arose, and disappearing for several minutes, brought his hat full of water for his prisoner from a distant spring that they had passed in their flight, he found him where he had left him, unchanged and unmoved.

He took the water gratefully and after a pause fixed his eyes earnestly upon his captor. "I want you to do a favor to me," he said slowly. "I'm not going to offer you a bribe to do it either nor ask you anything that isn't in line with your duty. I think I understand you now if I didn't before. Do you know Briggs' restaurant in Sacramento?"

The sheriff nodded. "Well, over the restaurant are my private rooms—the finest in Sacramento. Nobody knows it but Briggs, and he has never told. They've been locked ever since I left. I've got the key still in my pocket. Now, when we get to Sacramento instead of taking me straight to jail I want you to hold me there as your prisoner for a day and a night. I don't want to get away. You can take what precautions you like—surround the house with policemen and sleep yourself in the anteroom. I don't want to destroy any papers or evidence. You can go through the rooms and examine everything before and after. I only want to stay there a day and a night. I want to be in my old rooms, have my meals from the restaurant as I used to and sleep in my own bed once more. I want to live for one day like a gentleman, as I used to live before I came here. That's all. It isn't much, Tom. You can do it and say you require to do it to get evidence against me or that you want to search the rooms."

The expression of wonder which had come into the sheriff's face at the beginning of his speech deepened into his old look of surly dissatisfaction. "And that's all you want," he said gloomily. "You don't want no friends—no lawyer? For I tell you straight out, major, there ain't no hope for ye when the law once gets hold of you in Sacramento."

"That's all. Will you do it?" The sheriff's face grew still darker. After a pause he said: "I don't say 'no,' and I don't say 'yes.' But," he added grimly, "it strikes me we'd better wait till we get clear of these woods before you think of your Sacramento lodgings."

The major did not reply. The day had worn on, but the fire, now completely encircling them, opposed any passage in or out of that fateful barrier. The smoke of the burning underbrush hung low around them in a bank equally impenetrable to vision. They were as alone as shipwrecked sailors on an island girdled by a horizon of clouds.

"I'm going to try to sleep," said the major. "If your men come, you can waken me."

"And if your men come?" said the sheriff dryly. "Shoot me."

He lay down, closed his eyes, and to the sheriff's astonishment presently fell asleep. The sheriff, with his chin in his grimy hands, sat and watched him as the day slowly darkened around them and the distant fires came out in more lurid intensity. The face of the captive and outlawed murderer was singularly peaceful; that of the captor and man of duty was haggard, wild and perplexed.

But even this changed soon. The sleeping man stirred restlessly and uneasily, his face began to work, his lips to move. "Tom!" he gasped suddenly. "Tom!"

The sheriff bent over him eagerly. The sleeping man's eyes were still closed. Beads of sweat stood upon his forehead. He was dreaming.

"Tom," he whispered, "take me out of this place—take me out from those dogs and pimps and beggars! Listen, Tom—they're Sydney Duck's ticket of leave men, short card sharps and sneak thieves! There isn't a gentleman among 'em. There isn't one I don't loathe and hate and wouldn't grind under my heel elsewhere. I'm a gentleman, Tom—yes, by God—an officer and a gentleman! I've served my country in the Ninth cavalry. That cub of West Point knows it and despises me, seeing me here in such company. That sergeant knows it—I recommended him for his first stripes—for all he taunts me, d—n him!"

"Come, wake up!" said the sheriff harshly.

The prisoner did not heed him. The sheriff shook him roughly, so roughly that the major's waistcoat and shirt dragged open and disclosed his fine silk undershirt, delicately worked and embroidered with golden thread. At the sight of this abased and faded magnificence the sheriff's hand was staid. His eye wandered over the sleeping form before him. Yes, the hair was dyed, too; near the roots it was quite white and grizzled; the pomatum was coming off the pointed mustache and imperial; the face in that light was very haggard; the lines from the angle of the nostril and mouth were like deep, half healed gashes. The major was, without doubt, prematurely worn and played out.

The sheriff's persistent eyes, however, seemed to effect what his ruder for the first, and, it would seem, the last time.

For the "cub of West Point" was, like most cubs, irritable when thwarted. And having been balked of his prey, the deserter, and possibly chafed by his comrades for his profitless invasion of Wynyard's Bar, he had persuaded his commanding officer to give him permission to effect a recapture. Thus it came about that at dawn, filing along the ridge, on the outskirts of the fire, his heart was gladdened by the sight of the half breed, with his hanging hammock belt and tattered army tunic, evidently still a fugitive, not 100 yards away on the other side of the belt of fire, running down the hill, with another ragged figure at his side. The command to "halt" was enforced by a single rifle shot over the fugitives' heads, but they still kept on their flight. Then the boy officer snatched a carbine from one of his men. A volley rang out from the little troop—the shots of the privates mercifully high, those of the officer and sergeant leveled with wounded pride and full of deliberate purpose. The half breed fell, so did his companion, and, rolling over together, both lay still.

But between the hunters and their fallen quarry roared the cheval de frise of flame and fallen timber, impossible to cross. The young officer hesitated, shrugged his shoulders, wheeled his men and left the fire to correct any irregularity in his action.

It did not, however, change contemporary history. For, a week later, when Wynyard's Bar discovered Major Overstone lying beside the man now recognized by them as the disguised sheriff of Siskyou, they rejoiced at this unfeigned evidence of their lost leader's unequalled prowess. That he had again killed a sheriff and fought a whole posse, yielding only with his life, was never doubted and kept his memory green in Sierran chronicles long after Wynyard's Bar had itself become a memory.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

BY DR. TALMAGE

LAST SUNDAY IN METROPOLITAN PULPIT.

"After the Battle"—And It Came to Pass When They Came to Strip the Slain They Found Paul and His Three Sons on the Field.

OME OF YOU were at South Mountain, or Shiloh, or Ball's Bluff, or Gettysburg, on Northern or Southern side, and I ask you if there is any sadder sight than a battlefield after the guns have stopped firing? I walked across the field of Antietam just after the conflict. The scene was so sickening, I shall not describe it. Every valuable thing had been taken from the bodies of the dead, for there are always vultures hovering over and around about an army, and they pick up the watches and the memorandum books, and the letters, and the daguerreotypes, and the hats and the coats, applying them to their own use. The dead make no resistance. So there are always camp followers going on and after an army, as when Scott went down into Mexico, as when Napoleon marched up toward Moscow, as when Von Moltke went to Sedan. There is a similar scene in my text.

Saul and his army had been horribly cut to pieces. Mount Gilboa was ghastly with the dead. On the morrow the stragglers came on to the field, and they lifted the latchet of the helmet from under the chin of the dead, and they picked up the swords and bent them on their knee to test the temper of the metal, and they opened the wallets and counted the coin. Saul lay dead along the ground, eight or nine feet in length, and I suppose the cowardly Philistines, to show their bravery, leaped upon the trunk of his carcass, and jeered at the fallen slain, and whistled through the mouth of his helmet. Before night those cormorants had taken everything valuable from the field: "And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his three sons fallen in Mount Gilboa."

Before I get through to-day I will show you that the same process is going on all the world over, and every day, and that when we have fallen, Satan and the world, so far from pitying them or helping them, go to work remorselessly to take what little there is left, thus stripping the slain.

There are tens of thousands of young men every year coming from the country to our great cities. They come with brave hearts and grand expectations. The country lads sit down in the village grocery, with their feet on the iron rod around the red-hot stove, in the evening, talking over the prospects of the young man who has gone off to the city. Two or three of them think that perhaps he may get along very well and succeed, but the most of them prophesy failure, for it is very hard to think that those whom we knew in boyhood will ever make any great success in the world.

But our young man has a fine position in a dry-goods store. The month is over. He gets his wages. He is not accustomed to have so much money belonging to himself. He is a little excited, and does not know exactly what to do with it, and he spends it in some place where he ought not. Soon there come up new companions and acquaintances from the bar-rooms and the saloons of the city. Soon that young man begins to waver in the battle of temptation, and soon his soul goes down. In a few months, or few years, he has fallen. He is morally dead. He is a mere corpse of what he once was. The harpies of sin snuff up the taint and come on the field. His garments gradually give out. He has pawned his watch. His health is failing him. His credit perishes. He is too poor to pay his way home to the country. Down! down! Why do the low fellows of the city now stick to him so closely? Is it to help him back to a moral and spiritual life? Oh, no! I will tell you why they stay; they are Philistines stripping the slain.

Do not look where I point, but yonder stands a man who once had a beautiful home in this city. His house had elegant furniture, his children were beautifully clad, his name was synonymous with honor and usefulness; but evil habit knocked at his front door. Where is the piano? Sold to pay the rent. Where is the hat-rack? Sold to meet the butcher's bill. Where are the carpets? Sold to get bread. Where is the wardrobe? Sold to get rum. Where are the daughters? Working their fingers off in trying to keep the family together. Worse and worse until everything is gone.

Who is that going up the front steps of that house? That is a creditor, hoping to find some chair or bed that has not been levied upon. Who are those two gentlemen now going up the front steps? The one is a constable, the other the sheriff. Why do they go there? The unfortunate is morally dead. Why do they go there? I will tell you why the creditors, and the constables, and the sheriffs go there. They are, some on their own account, and some on account of the law, stripping the slain.

An ex-member of congress, one of the most eloquent that ever stood in the house of representatives, said in his last moments: "This is the end. I am dying—dying on a borrowed bed, covered by a borrowed sheet, in a house built by public charity. Bury me under that tree in the middle of the field, where I shall not be crowded, for I have been crowded all my life." Where were the jolly politicians and the dissipating comrades, who had been with him, laughing at his jokes, applauding his eloquence, and plunging him into sin? They have left. Why? His money is gone, his reputation is gone, his wit is gone, his clothes are gone, everything is gone. Why should they stay any longer? They have completed their work. They have stripped the slain.

There is another way, however, of doing that same work. Here is a man who, through his sin, is prostrate. He acknowledges that he has done wrong. Now is the time for you to go to that man and say: "Thousands of people have been as far astray as you are, and got back." Now is the time for you to go to that man and tell him of the omnipotent grace of God, that is sufficient for any poor soul. Now is the time to go to tell him how swearing John Bunyan, through the grace of God, afterward came to the Celestial City. Now is the time to go to that man and tell how prodigal Newman came, through conversion, to be a world-renowned preacher of righteousness. Now is the time to tell that man that multitudes who have been pounded with all the flails of sin and dragged through all the sewers of pollution, at last have risen to positive dominion of moral power.

You do not tell him that, do you? No. You say to him: "Loan you money? No. You are down. You will have to go to the dogs. Lend you a dollar? I would not lend you five cents to keep you from the gallows. You are debauched! Get out of my sight, now! Down! You will have to stay down!" And thus those bruised and battered men are sometimes accosted by those who ought to lift them up. Thus the last vestige of hope is taken from them. Thus those who ought to go and lift and save them, are guilty of stripping the slain.

The point I want to make is this: sin is hard, cruel and merciless. Instead of helping a man up it helps him down; and when, like Saul and his comrades, you lie on the field, it will come and steal your sword and helmet and shield, leaving you to the jackal and the crow.

But the world and Satan do not do all their work with the outcast and abandoned. A respectable impenitent man comes to die. He is flat on his back. He could not get up if the house was on fire. Adroitness medical skill and gentlest nursing have been a failure. He has come to his last hour. What does Satan do for such a man? Why, he fetches up all the inapt, disagreeable, and harrowing things in his life. He says: "Do you remember those chances you had for heaven, and missed them? Do you remember all those lapses in conduct? Do you remember all those abominable words and thoughts and actions? Don't remember them, eh? I'll make you remember them." And then he takes all the past and empties it on that death-bed, as the mail-bags are emptied on the post-office floor. The man is sick. He cannot get away from them.

Then the man says to Satan: "You have deceived me. You told me that all would be well. You said there would be no trouble at the last. You told me if I did so and so, you would do so and so. Now you corner me, and hedge me up, and submerge me in everything evil." "Ha! ha!" says Satan, "I was only fooling you. It is mirth for me to see you suffer. I have been for thirty years plotting to get you just where you are. It is hard for you now—it will be worse for you after awhile. It pleases me. Lie still, sir. Don't flinch or shudder. Come, now, I will tear off from you the last rag of expectation. I will rend away from your soul the last hope. I will leave you bare for the beating of the storm. It is my business to strip the slain."

While men are in robust health, and their digestion is good, and their nerves are strong, they think they can get through the last exigency. They say it is only cowardly women who are afraid at the last, and cry out for God. "Wait till I come to die. I will show you. You won't hear me pray, nor call for a minister, nor want a chapter read me from the Bible." But after the man has been three weeks in a sick-room, his nerves are not so steady, and his worldly companions are not anywhere near to cheer him up, and he is persuaded that he must quit life; his physical courage is all gone.

When the Philistines came down on the field, they stepped between the corpses, and they rolled over the dead, and they took away everything that was valuable; and so it was with the people that followed after the armies at Chancellorsville, and at Pittsburg Landing, and at Stone River, and at Atlanta, stripping the slain; but the Northern and Southern women—God bless them!—came on the fields with basins, and pads, and towels, and lint, and cordials, and Christian encouragement; and the poor fellows that lay there lifted up their arms and said: "Oh, how good that does feel since you dressed it!" and others looked up and said: "Oh, how you make me think of my mother!" and others said: "Tell the folks at home I died thinking about them!" and another looked up and said: "Miss, won't you sing me a verse of 'Home, Sweet Home,' before I die?" And then the tattoo was sounded, and the hats were off, and the service was read: "I am the resurrection and the life;" and in honor of the departed the muskets were loaded, and the command given, "Present—fire!" And there was a single set up at the head of the grave, with the epitaph of "Lieutenant—in the Fourteenth Massachusetts Regulars," or "Captain—in the Fifteenth Regiment of South Carolina Volunteers." And so now, across this great field of moral and spiritual battle, the angels of God come walking among the slain, and there are voices of comfort, and voices of hope, and voices of resurrection, and voices of heaven.

One night I saw a tragedy on the corner of Broadway and Houston street. A young man, evidently doubting as to which direction he had better take, his hat lifted high enough so that you could see he had an intelligent forehead, stout chest; he had a robust development. Splendid young man, cultured young man. Honored young man. Why did he stop there while so many were going up and down? The fact is, that that every man has a good angel and a bad angel contending for the mastery of his spirit, and there was a good angel and a bad angel struggling with that young man's soul at the corner of Broadway and Houston street. "Come with me," said the good angel; "I will take you home; I will spread my wings over your pillow; I will lovingly escort you all through life under supernatural protection; I will bless every cup you drink out of, every couch you rest on, every doorway you enter; I will consecrate your tears when you weep, your sweat when you toil, and at the last I will hand over your grave into the hands of a bright angel of a Christian resurrection. In answer to your father's petition and your mother's prayer, I have been sent of the Lord out of heaven to be your guardian spirit. Come with me," said the good angel in a voice of unearthly sympathy. It was music like that which drops from a lute of heaven when a seraph breathes on it. "No, no," said the bad angel, "come with me; I have something better to offer; the wines I pour are from chalices of bewitching carousal; the dance I lead is over floor tessellated with unrestrained indulgence; there is no God to frown on the temples of sin where I worship. The sl... Italian. The paths I tread are rough meadows, daisied and primrosed. Come with me." The young man hesitated at a time when hesitation was ruin, and the bad angel smote the good angel until it departed, spreading wings through the starlight upward and away until a door flashed open in the sky and forever the wings vanished. That was the turning point in that young man's history; for, the good angel flown, he hesitated no longer, but started on a pathway which is beautiful at the opening, but blasted at the last. The bad angel, leading the way, opened gate after gate, and at each gate the road became rougher and the sky more lurid, and what was peculiar, as the gate slammed shut it came to with a jar that indicated that it would never open. Passed each portal, there was a grinding of locks and a shoving of bolts; and the scenery on either side of the road changed from gardens to deserts; and the June air became a cutting December blast, and the bright wings of the bad angel turned to sackcloth, and the eyes of light became hollow and hopeless grief, and the fountains, that at the start had tossed with wine, poured forth boiling tears and foaming blood, and on the right side of the road there was a serpent, and the man said to the bad angel, "What is that serpent?" and the answer was, "That is the serpent of stinging remorse." On the left side of the road there was a lion, and the man asked the bad angel, "What is that lion?" and the answer was, "That is the lion of all-devouring despair." A vulture flew through the sky, and the man asked the bad angel, "What is that vulture?" and the answer was, "That is the vulture waiting for the carcasses of the slain." And then the man began to try to pull off him the folds of something that had wound him round and round, and he said to the bad angel, "What does all this mean? I trusted in what you said at the corner of Broadway and Houston street; I trusted it all, and why have you thus deceived me?" Then the last deception fell off the charmer, and it said, "I was sent forth from the pit to destroy your soul; I watched my chance for many a long year; when you hesitated that night on Broadway I gained my triumph; now you are here. Ha! ha! You are here. Come, now, let us fill these two chalices of fire, and drink together to darkness and woe and death. Ha! ha! Oh! young man, will the good angel sent forth by Christ, or the bad angel sent forth by sin, get the victory over your soul? Their wings are interlocked this moment above you, contending for your destiny, as above the Appenines, eagle and condor fight mid-sky. This hour may decide your destiny."

J. A. Richardson, of Jefferson City, Mo., Chief Enrolling force 38th general assembly of Missouri, writes: "I wish to testify to the merits of One Minute Cough Cure. When other so-called cures failed, I obtained almost instant relief and a speedy cure by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. C. D. Stevens."

MONEY MADE AT HOME.

Last month cleared, after paying all expenses, $235.38; the month before $186.86 and at the same time attended to my regular business. I believe anyone, anywhere, can do as well, as I have not a particularly good location and a lot of much experience. When you have an article that every family wants, it is very easy selling it. It seems strange that a good, cheap dish washer was never before placed on the market. With the Perfection, which sells for $5.00 you can wash and dry the dishes for a family in two minutes, without putting the hands in water. As such a people see the washer work, they want one, and that is why so much money can be made so quickly. For full particulars address The Perfection Mfg. Co., Station 6, Englewood, Ill. I feel convinced that any lady or gentleman, in any location can make $5.00 a day, as every family will very soon have a dish washer. Try it and publish your experience. Write to the Perfection Mfg. Co., Englewood, Ill.

TO THE TRADE:

Appreciating the fact that there is a demand for buggies cheaper than any we have heretofore made, we have equipped a part of our plant for the exclusive manufacture of this grade of work. In making this arrangement we have been careful to direct the general make-up of the goods, and our long experience in making high grade vehicles, enables us to incorporate more style than is generally found in low-priced work.

We know that it is much more satisfactory to the dealer to buy direct from the manufacturer, than through other sources.

We will be able to meet all competition in this grade of work.

Yours truly,

HENNEY BUGGY CO.

We handle this famous make buggy and buy direct from the factory and quote factory prices.
